Top risk flags

- RISK English test score below typical threshold for course type
Minimum English scores are set by LIN 19/051 and vary by provider type and course level. Submitting a score below the required threshold will result in the application being refused. Sub-band scores below the minimum are also grounds for refusal even if the overall score passes.
- RISK English test score below typical threshold for course type
The Migration Regulations require English proficiency suited to your enrolled course. Minimum scores are set by instrument (LIN 19/051) and vary by provider type and course level. Submitting a score below the required threshold will result in the application being refused.
- ELAG Course inconsistent with prior study or career path
The Genuine Student test includes an assessment of whether the course is consistent with the applicant's stated career goals. A mismatch between academic background, work experience, and enrolled course is a known risk indicator.
- ELAG Weak ties to home country
Decision makers assess genuine student intention by weighing circumstances including ties to home country (property, family, employment prospects). Weak or unexplained ties may indicate the applicant does not intend to return, which is a risk indicator under clause 500.212.
- ELAG Course inconsistent with prior study or career path
The Genuine Student test includes an assessment of whether the course is consistent with your stated career goals. A mismatch between your academic background, work experience, and enrolled course is a known risk indicator.
